

Contents

Foreword	7
Introduction	9
I. Orthodoxy: A Living Tradition	13
II. How the Romanian Church was Born: A Brief History of a Sacramental Institution	25
III. Romanian Orthodoxy and its Call for Ecumenicity	65
IV. The Silent Side of Orthodoxy: The Monastic Ideal	89
V. Lay Persons and their Role in the Church	101
VI. “Seek first the Kingdom of God”: Higher Theological Education in Romania	107
VII. Bridges: Science, Theology and Religious Education in the Public Schools	127
VIII. Romanian Orthodox Media: An Emerging Voice in the National Media Landscape	143
IX. A Church Is Called to Listen and Bring Relief. The Philanthropic Vocation of the Romanian Orthodox Church	147
X. Orthodoxy and Human Rights or the Universal Concern for Human Life and Dignity	169

XI. “The Earth Is the Lord’s, and Everything in It!” (Psalm 24: 1). Benchmarks for an Orthodox Approach of Eco-Theology	185
XII. A Singing Church: Art and Faith in the Orthodox Lifestyle	217
Conclusions	227
Bibliography	229